The expiration of the agreed time for this lease agreement will result in the automatic termination of the contract, and the tenant will be obliged to leave the room free of belongings on the aforementioned date and at the disposal of the property, leaving the rented room in the same conditions existing at the time of occupancy.

The tenant agrees to give at least one (1) month's notice of the date on which they will vacate the property. This notice must be clear and precise and will serve as official confirmation of their intention to terminate the lease agreement on the indicated date.

If the tenant does not vacate the property on that date, the tenant must compensate the landlord with an amount equivalent to twice the daily rent for each day that elapses until the effective eviction, without prejudice to the obligation to vacate said property and the responsibility to leave the dwelling in the same condition in which it was found.

Third.- Regarding income.

The annual rent stipulated for the lease is SEVEN THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED EUROS (€7800), payable in advance monthly installments of SIX HUNDRED AND FIFTY EUROS (€650) payable within the first five days of each month. Rent payment will be made by bank deposit or transfer to account number ES5901821797360203967377, and proof of payment must be sent. within that same period to the landlord at the email address albertocejudo@rent2space.es Fourth.- Regarding the updating of the rent.

The stipulated income will be adjusted annually to the increase in the cost of living according to the Consumer Price Index for the National Group, in accordance with the data published by the National Institute of Statistics or the body that replaces it.
Under no circumstances will the adaptation entail a reduction in the rent being paid.

The basis for this adjustment will be the rent being paid by the tenants at the time of each review, that is, the initial rent plus any subsequent adjustments. If, due to a delay in the publication of these indices, the adjustment cannot be made on the scheduled date, the difference must be paid in any case, starting from the relevant month. Under no circumstances will a delay in carrying out the review constitute a waiver of the right to it.

Fifth.- Regarding the bond.

The tenant in turn delivers to the landlord in this same act the amount of THREE HUNDRED EUROS (€300) which is paid as a deposit, this document constituting the most effective letter of payment.

This deposit will not be returned if the minimum stipulated time is not met and once that time has elapsed, if the departure is not notified one month in advance.

The price includes the keys to the building entrance and the apartment, valued at €120.
which, in case of loss, will be deducted from the final deposit.

The landlord will be responsible for the contracted services such as cleaning in all rooms and common areas of the property, along with the first SIXTY EUROS (€60) of expenses per tenant.

In other words, if a month's expenses amount to €70, there will be an excess of €10 to be paid for the tenants. Any excess in these expenses will be shared among all tenants.

Seventh.- Regarding repairs and works.

The LANDLORD is obliged to carry out, without the right to increase the rent, all repairs necessary to maintain the dwelling and the room in habitable condition for the agreed use, except when the damage to be repaired is attributable to the tenant in accordance with the provisions of articles 1563 and 1564 of the Civil Code.

Conversely, minor repairs required due to normal wear and tear of the room will be the responsibility of the landlord. Minor repairs required due to normal wear and tear of the common areas will be the responsibility of the tenants occupying the dwelling at the time the repairs are carried out, in proportion to their respective rooms.

Although it is not considered a construction project, the tenant is expressly prohibited from making holes or perforations in the walls of the property, and the amount necessary for the walls to regain their original state will be deducted from the deposit.

The TENANT may not carry out any work in the rented room or in the common elements, unless he has the prior, express and written consent of the owner.

Without prejudice to the right to terminate the contract, the LANDLORD who has not authorized the carrying out of the works may require, upon termination of the contract, that the TENANT restore things to their previous state or preserve the modification made, without the TENANT being able to claim any compensation or indemnification for this.

The execution of such works, as well as the expenses and procedures for obtaining the appropriate permits and licenses, will be the sole responsibility of the LESSEE.

Nevertheless, the TENANT is strictly prohibited from carrying out any works that modify the configuration of the dwelling or cause reductions in its stability or safety.

Eighth.- On the system of responsibilities.

The tenant releases the property owner from all liability for damages to things or persons that may occur, and are a direct or indirect consequence of the use and occupation of the dwelling, whether caused by omission, intent and/or negligence in the use of the property and its facilities, the tenants assuming civil and/or criminal liability for the damages caused.

The landlord is not liable for any damages that may be caused to the tenant due to unforeseen circumstances or force majeure, including but not limited to dampness, water leaks, short circuits, detachment of any element of the building, and damage that the property and its various installations may suffer. The landlord also assumes no responsibility whatsoever for the safety of the leased property, nor for any damages that may occur.

to be caused to people, goods or things existing therein, in case of fire, robbery, theft, damages and accidents of all kinds.

The landlord, in any case, states that the leased property is duly insured.

Furthermore, the landlord agrees not to keep any pets in the property and must notify the tenant if any pets are present. Failure to do so will result in the landlord being charged two months' rent for violating the house rules.

Notwithstanding the LANDLORD's right to terminate the contract, any delay in the payment of rent, legal or contractual increases and expenses of any nature under the agreed terms will accrue, from the time they become due until the time of their effective payment, a default interest in favor of the LANDLORD calculated on the basis of the legal interest rate of money increased by two points, in force at the time the delay begins.

The TENANT authorizes the LANDLORD and the persons designated by them to access the dwelling, so that they may inspect the state of conservation of the rented dwelling as well as any works, of any kind, that may be carried out on the property, after prior notice.

The TENANT agrees to leave the room in the same condition as when it was delivered to the LANDLORD free of charge, handing over the keys to the room at the time of termination of this contract.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, any item left in the room by the tenant shall be considered abandoned, without prejudice to the landlord's right to recover the cost incurred in removing it.

Tenth.- Regarding the assignment or sublease.

The tenant may not assign or sublet the rented room in whole or in part.

Eleventh.- On the rights of first refusal and redemption.
